

Four of Maragon's matric pupils get down to business

17 June 2011
Northsider

Ruimsig — Four Grade 12 pupils from Maragon High School – Tyron Fitzpatrick, Divan van Wyk, Ryan Knox (back), and Thando Rolihlahla (front) – excitedly agreed that the business simulation day, hosted by Banago Traders at the Johannesburg School of Finance, could indeed be summed up as being, "A day well spent." According to Thando, the business and accounting pupils, "Thoroughly enjoyed the experience. We certainly learned a lot from it." It is said that survival is not about being the strongest or wisest, but about the ability to adapt. The accounting students proved this to be true, winning the simulation with minimal business experience. Well done to the foursome on achieving this educational feat.
